Tunetap makes more music by letting fans crowdfund concerts so artists can focus on the art rather than the business. Artists will be able to easily set up and fund live events, without having to risk their own money guaranteeing minimums. We also look at fan engagement to help artists and venues predict demand and automatically plan and schedule events. Real music happens at live events, and we believe the industry will be moving there. Come build the future of music.

UI/UX design is a fusion of visual design and implementation with an emphasis on delivering a stunning user experience. The UI/UX designer will work with our CEO to design the product vision, and alongside our CTO and developers to build the product. The UI/UX designer must be able to decide when to incorporate user feedback, and to do so in a way that increases the value of our product.

Responsibilities

- Design product alongside CEO
- Translate vision into clear design specs for developers
- Delight our users with intuitive, engaging user interfaces
- Ensure consistency of experience for users across web, mobile, and desktop
- Recruit designer and developer talent, as needed

Requirements

- Internship or experience designing and building intuitive UIs with an emphasis on UX
- Ability to translate goals into action steps
- An eye for detail and an intuition for usable design
- Experience with graphic design and Adobe Illustrator
- Capable of rendering mockups in HTML and CSS

Desirables

- Background in Computer Science or Information Science
- Experience with Javascript or Rails
- Interest or experience in data and audio visualization
- Comfortable analyzing user metrics and conducting usability studies
- Interest in typography, psychology, music, or cultural diversity

At the moment, this position is unpaid. There is the potential, but not the promise, of pay and/or non-salary incentives, including equity or commission, depending on the performance of our team. In addition, this role is on a temporary basis at the discretion of the employer and the employee.

Come build something amazing. Send an email to thetap@tunetapmusic.com and tell us about yourself. Attach or link your resume, portfolio, videos, or anything else that might be relevant. Let us know if someone referred you to this position. We'll be in touch!